English Manufacturer Freet

Mr. John Wannamaker, of Philadelphia, relates the following as a conversation between himself and a leading English manufacturer :

One of the best known manufacturers of Great Britain, an old and a very able business man, and a member of parliament, said to me when visiting this country a few months ago: "Give us some special orders; we have not looms, and will be willing to set apart certain looms for you and make any specialities you wish, and confine the goods specially to your house."

"Why don't you run your machinery?" I asked. "Your confounded protection is our trouble," he answered. "Well, then pull up stakes and move one of your large factories over here. America would welcome such an indus-
